Lincoln County, GA Sheriff's Department Installs State-of-the-Art Document Imaging Solution

New System Increases Efficiency, Saves Money and Modernizes Operations

LINCOLNTON, GA. (Nov. XX, 2006) — Lincoln County (GA) Sheriff's Department announced today that it has selected the aXs Info Imaging System to streamline operations and improve productivity in the 30-person department. Simple Solutions Group, an Atlanta-based document scanning services company and value-added reseller, sold and installed the system along with a new server that will allow the sheriff's department to operate independently from the county.

According to Lincoln County Sheriff Gerald Lawson, the department reviewed several document management solutions and vendors before selecting aXs and Simple Solutions Group. The department procured the new system through a Homeland Security grant.

"We wanted to get rid of the old paper files and modernize the department," Lawson said. For years, the department stored records in three locations, both on-site and off-site. "Staff spent way too much time searching for documents, and records were often misfiled, misplaced or lost. Now everything is automated and in one place."

aXs Info is a robust and full-featured document management solution that captures, stores, retrieves and manages information. Built on an open architecture, the flexible and scalable system integrates easily into existing applications and can grow as department needs change. Designed for ease-of-use, the aXs is simple to implement and operate.

The imaging system will increase efficiency throughout the department, particularly when booking inmates. "Instead of starting a paper file on an inmate, which can eventually expand to hundreds of pages, staff simply enters the information into the imaging system," said Lt. David Stevens, records manager for Lincoln County Sheriff's Department. The electronic file can be archived, retrieved, printed or emailed. Updates are made quickly and easily with a few keystrokes.

The document management solution also will boost productivity. For years, staff hand-delivered records to the district attorney's office, which is more than 20 miles from the sheriff's department. Now that the records can be emailed, staff can focus on more important tasks.

"We're excited to procure this new document management system," Lawson said. "Small rural counties like ours don't have a lot of resources. This gives us the capability to compete on a level playing field with other agencies and provide information in a timely manner."
